PRINCIPAL BARUTI KAFELE
The Equity-Mindset Educator

A highly regarded urban educator in New Jersey for over 20 years, Baruti Kafele distinguished himself as a master teacher and a transformational school leader. As an elementary school teacher in East Orange, New Jersey, he was selected as the East Orange School District and Essex County Public Schools Teacher of the Year and New Jersey State Teacher of the Year finalist. As a middle and high school principal, Kafele led the turnaround of four New Jersey urban schools, including Newark Tech, which went from a low-performing school in need of improvement to being recognized three times in U.S. News & World Report as one of America’s best high schools. Kafele is the author of 12 books, including his most recent release, The Equity & Social Justice Education 50 (2021).
No other event has this lineup of top speakers.
Assessing the Impact: Evaluating Professional Learning

Measuring the quality, effectiveness, and impact of professional learning requires thoughtful planning and implementation of an evaluation process. Explore an eight-step process for evaluating professional learning. See how to assess the evaluability of a program, formulate evaluation questions, and construct an evaluation framework that includes data sources, data collection methods, and data analysis. Learn to apply the process to create a plan for evaluating your own professional learning programs.

PARTICIPANTS WILL
- Define the steps of the evaluation process;
- Assess the evaluability of an existing professional learning program (outcomes defined as KASAB, standards of success, indicators of success, theory of change);
- Revise professional learning core components to increase evaluability, if needed; and
- Construct an evaluation framework (data sources, data collection methods, data analysis techniques, timeline) for their own professional learning program or a simulated one to answer the evaluation questions.

Joellen Killion, Learning Forward, joellen.killion@learningforward.org

Area of Focus: Learning Designs, Implementation

Becoming a Learning Team

Gain step-by-step guidance in using collaborative learning time for teachers to solve specific student learning challenges. Examine a process for using student data to craft student and educator learning goals leading to learning plans, implementation steps, and progress monitoring. Focus on the role of learning teams in implementing high-quality instructional materials and what that means for student and educator learning goals and agendas.

PARTICIPANTS WILL
- Understand the value and importance of collaborative learning to improve teaching and learning;
- Take steps to launch a learning team cycle with five key stages and examine how to implement each with specific strategies and supporting protocols;
- See how to support the meaningful implementation of high-quality instructional materials;
- Adapt the cycle to fit specific school and district calendars and initiatives; and
- Leave with a road map to focus on the day-to-day actions in classrooms among students, educators, and instructional materials for maximum impact.

Coaching for Instructional Equity

Leverage the science of learning through a culturally responsive lens. Identify instructional practices that accelerate students’ ability to complete unfinished learning. Examine the teacher moves to become a stronger cognitive mediator and support productive struggle that grows student brainpower. Connect equity goals to improving the instructional core, and understand the role of instructional coaches in ensuring instruction leads to more equitable outcomes.

PARTICIPANTS WILL
- Identify instructional practices that accelerate students’ ability to complete unfinished learning;
- Go beyond diversifying the curriculum and focus on decolonizing instruction in ways that leverage diverse students’ collectivist learning practices;
- Articulate the teacher moves to become a stronger cognitive mediator and support productive struggle that grows student brain power;
- Connect equity goals to improving the instructional core; and
- Understand the different role instructional coaches need to play to ensure instruction leads to more equitable outcomes.

Coaching Matters

Examine the essential characteristics of effective building-level instructional coaching programs, using a coaching framework to examine all aspects of the program. Explore ways to move coaching from a focus on teacher behaviors to a focus on student results. Leave with examples and practical tools from a variety of districts, including protocols for building relationships with teachers and principals, ways to assess the impact of coaching, sample documents defining the roles of coaches and the role of the coach champion, and more.

PARTICIPANTS WILL

- Build capacity (knowledge, skills, dispositions, and practices) to define and implement an effective coaching program that positively impacts student achievement;
- Use a coaching framework to examine all aspects of the coaching program;
- Analyze examples and structures as useful tools in carrying out the work of coaching; and
- Explore ways to move coaching from a focus on teacher behaviors to a focus on student results.

Compassionate Coaching: Navigating Barriers to Professional Growth

Dive into a framework for compassionate coaching that helps coaches avoid the distractions, obstacles, and detours that can take educators off course. Examine the components of the three-phase coaching cycle tailored to each individual and understand the conditions for implementing them. Identify barriers that educators face and explore techniques to address them. Get ready to reimagine instructional coaching with compassion, with strategies to adjust coaching moves to meet educator needs.

PARTICIPANTS WILL

- Identify the coaching pathways of autonomy, belonging, and competence;
- Examine the components of the three-phase coaching cycle tailored to each individual and understand the conditions for implementing them;
- Identify Compassionate Coaching Focus areas for several barriers that educators face; and
- Explore techniques to address each barrier with the Compassionate Coaching Focus area.

PC13  Reimagining Leading and Coaching for Everyone’s Well-Being

Develop knowledge, insights, and skills related to the well-being needs of students, staff, and yourself in a volatile world. Reimagine how to engage with practical well-being strategies not usually considered in SEL practices, such as learning outdoors, developing ethical guidelines for technology use, and addressing controversial issues through the curriculum. Leave with an ability to lead deep educator reflection about issues such as how well-being is part of learning and how emotions like anger and disgust shouldn’t just be managed but reimagined in terms of their positive value for changing the world.

PARTICIPANTS WILL

- Deepen their knowledge of SEL and well-being;
- Reimagine how to engage with practical well-being strategies not usually considered in SEL practices, such as learning outdoors, developing ethical guidelines for technology use, and addressing controversial issues through the curriculum; and
- Leave with an ability to lead deep educator reflection about issues such as how well-being is part of learning, not an add-on to or offset for it; about how well-being is a sociological as well as a psychological responsibility; and about how so-called “negative” emotions like anger and disgust shouldn’t just be managed but should sometimes be reimagined in terms of their positive value for changing the world.
